To Whom It May Concern:

We can confirm that Multiforms LLC was engaged as the cladding sub-contractor for the Castle House project 'Elephant & Castle' London in July 2007. Multiforms LLC appointment was on a design, production and installation basis.

The Castle House project is the new 43 storey residential tower which stands in the heart of Elephant and Castle (E&C). A dynamic addition to London's skyline, rising 147 metres above ground level.

The building geometry is comprised of three principal curved facades in plan; the convex east and west facades intersecting with a concave facade to the south. All facades with the exception of the ground floor shop front and the inclined top of building are constructed using a high performance aluminum unitised curtain wall system. This system satisfied the onerous requirements both of a Central London location and the United Kingdom Building Regulations and surpassed expectations in respect of thermal properties, acoustics.

The building is further defined by two setbacks toward the top of the building that elevate up and around the east and west facades accentuating the buildings form. The top of the building is an interplay of curved forms whereby the plan form interacts with the concaved inclined facade; itself intersecting with the concave southern facade to create the accentuated apex curve.

Multiforms cladding encompassed each surface of the building surfaces but excluded the wind turbine venturi and the Building Maintenance Garage

Multiforms throughout the course of the project has had a pro-active approach across all facets of the build; inclusive the difficult logistics arising from international procurement. Multiforms and Brookfield continue to work closely together to ensure the timely completion of this quality project.

Yours sincerely
